K-12 digital classroom practice™ conference

Teaching literacy | Teaching numeracy

Friday 31 August 2018 | Melbourne Convention & Exhibition Centre

Literacy and numeracy are a main focus of the Gonski report

The K-12 Digital Classroom Practice Conference will take it one step further by highlighting the very direct and contemporary link between digital technology and the teaching of literacy and numeracy.

A key event of
NATIONAL EDUCATION SUMMIT

The K-12 Digital Classroom Practice Conference is one of the parallel conferences being run under the National Education Summit banner.
The Education Show will be co-located at the venue and is the exhibition component of the event.

The conference theme is:

Teaching literacy | Teaching numeracy – with the support of digital technology

This conference has selected as its keynote speaker and presenters a group of teachers highly skilled and experienced in using digital technology to support literacy and numeracy teaching programs.

The conference program offers skills based sessions, so come prepared to roll your sleeves up to learn new transferable skills that will lift your literacy and numeracy teaching to even greater heights.

The conference will be held in the Courtyard rooms at the MCEC on Friday 31 August 2018.

- Smart practical applications using digital technology
- What tools are you going to use?
- Embedding Literacy and Numeracy knowledge with digital technology across the curriculum

Keynote Speaker
Anthony Speranza will present: How does technology empower the modern learner?
